When such application is filed pursuant to the General City Law, a copy of each application and plans relative thereto shall simultaneously be served on the President of the Borough in which the premises are located. Proof of such service shall be filed with the Board.

5. At the public hearing of a case before the Board, the applicant shall first present the argument in support of the case and those in objection shall follow. To maintain orderly procedure, each side shall proceed without interruption by the other.

6. Every person before the rostrum shall abide by the order and direction of the Chairman. Discourteous or disorderly conduct shall be regarded as a breach of his privileges and shall be dealt with the Chairman deems proper. Subject to the direction of the Board, the Director shall enforce these rules and supervise the Sergeant at Arms in maintaining order and decorum in the hearing room and lobbies during all public hearings.

7. Commissioners shall not proceed to question or discuss an issue, put a motion or offer a resolution until they shall have addressed the Chairman and shall have been recognized by him. During the progress of the roll call, no Commissioner shall leave his seat.

ARTICLE III—THE CALENDAR

1. Each case filed in the proper form, with the required data, shall be numbered serially except that, when a new case is filed for the same premises as a disposed-of case and the Board so directs, the original calendar number may be used and, in addition, the case shall be termed Volume I, II, or III, etc., as the case may be.

The Calendar numbers shall begin anew on January 1st of each year, and shall be hyphenated with the number of the year and the initials indicating the character of the case.

2. As soon as a case is filed and fee is paid, it shall receive a calendar number, be placed on the docket and referred to the examiners for review. When the examiners find that the applicant has properly completed his application or appeal, the applicant shall be notified of the date on which his case will be set for public hearing.

3. Each case, other than the Special Order cases, shall be listed by Calendar number and premises in the Hearing Calendar printed in the Bulletin of the Board, under the title of the respective proceedings and the date for which such case has been set.

4. The Special Order cases shall consist of applications for any extension of the time to complete the work, for any extensions of the term of variance, for the restoration of a case to the docket, for any amendment to the resolution or for any other action in any matter coming before the Board.

ARTICLE IV—DISPOSITION OF CASES

1. The final determination of any application or appeal before the Board shall be in the form of a resolution either reversing, varying or modifying the order, requirement, decision or determination appealed from, granting the application or appeal or affirming the order or decision and denying the application or appeal, or dismissing the application or appeal for lack of jurisdiction or prosecution. The concurring vote of three Commissioners shall be necessary to a decision. If a resolution fail to receive three votes in favor of the application, the action will be deemed equivalent to a denial and a resolution denying such application or appeal shall be formally entered on the record unless there be a Commissioner absent at the roll call and the vote of the absentee added to the number of vote for the application would be equal to three, in which case the matter will be laid over for consideration and final determination.

2. With the consent of the Board, any applicant may withdraw his application or appeal at any time prior to determination thereon, but, if a motion has been made, and be pending, such motion shall have precedence.

3. No application or appeal which has been dismissed or denied can be considered again except on a motion adopted to reconsider the vote or to restore to the Calendar.

4. No request for a re-hearing will be granted unless substantial new evidence be submitted or an application be filed under a different provision of the law. If, on motion of a Commissioner, adopted by three affirmative votes, the request is granted, the case shall be put on the docket and calendared for rehearing.

In all cases the request for rehearing shall be in writing, reciting the reasons for the request, and shall be accompanied by the necessary data and diagrams. Such request shall be filed with the Director who shall set a date when the request for restoration to the Calendar shall be submitted to the Board, of which date the person making the request shall be notified.

5. The Board may, on the motion of any Commissioner, review any decision that it has made and may reverse or modify such decision, but no such review shall prejudice the rights of any person who has in good faith acted thereon before it is reversed or modified.

ARTICLE V—ZONING APPLICATIONS

1. No application for a variance or modification of the provisions of the Zoning Resolution shall be entertained by the Board except in a specific case, and from an order, requirement, decision or determination made by the Commissioner of Buildings or any Borough Superintendent of the Department of Buildings, on the ground that the proposed plan or use violates the Zoning Resolution, except when the Board has original jurisdiction.

2. No such application shall be entertained unless the application is filed within thirty (30) days from the date of the action of the Commissioner of Buildings or any Borough Superintendent of the Department of Buildings.

3. Every application shall be made on Form BZ and shall be accompanied by all the data required by such forms, and shall be considered subject to such rules as the Board has adopted or may adopt under the Zoning Resolution.

4. As soon as any application is completed by the filing of the data required in Form BZ and payment of the prescribed fee, the case shall receive a calendar number. After a review of the application by the Examiner, the applicant shall be notified by the Director on Form 6CC of the date set for the Public Hearing, which shall be at least thirty (30) days after than mailing of said notice. With this notice, the applicant shall be supplied with an official copy of Form 7NO, which he is required to send, NOT LESS THAN TWENTY (20) DAYS PRIOR TO THE DATE OF SUCH HEARING, to every property owner entitled to notice of the application. Five (5) days prior to such hearing date, the applicant must file a verified statement that he has so notified each such property owner either by personal service or by registered or certified mail. Not less than fourteen (14) days notice of the said hearing shall be given by publication in the Bulletin of the Board.

5. On the date set for the Public Hearing, the applicant, owner, his architect, engineer, agent or attorney shall state his case; then the opposition shall be heard, and both shall have an opportunity for rebuttal.

6. Any application that has been denied after a Public Hearing cannot be reheard except on new material facts or under a different section of the Zoning Resolution.

7. Property owners in the affected area of the zoning application may appear at the Public Hearing and voice their objections in person, or by agent or attorney. Each person shall give his or her name after being recognized by the Chairman, the block and lot of the property owned by him or her and then briefly state his or her objections. In lieu of a personal appearance, or by an agent or attorney, he may file his or her views in writing on Form 9C, which is obtainable at the offices of the Board. Briefs will be accepted only if filed at least five (5) days before the Public Hearing.

ARTICLE VI—APPEALS

For Applicant: Reuben Lisson.

ACTION OF BOARD—Application reopened and resolution amended in accordance with the report and recommendation of the Committee on Test.

THE VOTE—

Affirmative: Chairman Foley, Commissioner Becker and Commissioner Klein 3

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:

669-63-SA—Amendment to resolution as to alternate method of handling condensate.

R. Lisson for Old Dominion Iron and Steel Corp., Richmond, Virginia, requested that the resolution adopted April 7, 1964, under Cal. No. 669-63-SA, be reopened and amended so as to consider an alternate method of handling condensate.

PROPOSED USE: Preheater for heavy fuel oil.

DESCRIPTION: There has been no change in the construction of the heater. The request is to consider the use of the condensate instead of discharging the condensate to waste.

The manner by which this will be achieved is as follows:

The system consists of a receiving tank for the condensate leaving the preheater, a probe scanner to detect any oil contamination and a master control relay that activates two solenoid operated condensate flow valves in response to the signals received from the probe scanner.

All the condensate leaving the preheater passes into a receiving tank, under electronic probing for purity by the scanning probe. As long as the probing indicates that the condensate is uncontaminated, the condensate passes out of the inspection tank into the main receiving tank.

However, if the probe detects the presence of oil in the condensate, it triggers the master relay, which immediately closes the entry solenoid valve to the inspection tank and opens a bypass solenoid valve, directing all further condensate flow to the sewer.

At the same time, audible and visible warnings are set off so that remedial action shall be taken.

The inspection tank is such that the contaminated condensate setting off the relay remains trapped in the inspection tank, and cannot pass on to the receiving tank. This contaminated condensate is then withdrawn from the inspection tank through a scavenger line leading to the sewer.

Only after the preheater has been repaired and the condensate tests clean, can the flow to the receiving tank be restored.

INSPECTION AND TEST: The schematic arrangement of the system was examined by Assistant Engineer J. A. Darts.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends that the resolution adopted April 7, 1964, under Cal. No. 669-63-SA, be reopened and amended so as to permit the use of clean condensate in lieu of discharging to the sewer when the installation is as herein described, on condition that all other requirements of the resolution adopted April 7, 1964, under Cal. No. 669-63-SA, are complied with. The Committee further recommends that the construction of the preheater may be such that the oil may be either in the shell or tube, and the steam will be either in the shell or tube, depending on the location of the oil.

APPLICANT—Flamort Chemical Company, owner.

ACTION OF BOARD—Material approved in accordance with the report and recommendation of Committee on Test.

THE VOTE—

Affirmative: Chairman Foley, Commissioner Fox and Commissioner Klein 3
Negative: Vice Chairman Kleinert 1
Absent: Commissioner Becker 1

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:
Cal. No. 684-63-SM—Flamort Chemical Company San Francisco, California, filed for approval of the material known as Flamort WC, a flame retardant, under the provisions of C26-191.0, Administrative Building Code.

PROPOSED USE: To reduce the combustibility of wood and cellulose board.

DESCRIPTION: Flamort WC is a water soluble, colorless flame retardant that is to be applied to interior surfaces by spray or immersion. Its formula is of a proprietary nature and kept in the safe at the offices of the Board.

For use, a solution is made up by dissolving 3 pounds of Flamort WC per each gallon of water. This solution is applied either by immersion or by spraying. The spray is applied in three separate coats on the basis of 110 sq. ft. per gallon on Douglas fir and 60 sq. ft. per gallon on cellulose board.

INSPECTION AND TEST: Flamort WC applied as a finished surface on Douglas fir and cellulose board was tunnel tested at the Underwriters' Laboratories, and showed a flame spread of 65-70 on the fir and 50-55 on the cellulose board. It was further determined that Flamort WC will not add to the toxicity of combustion products of burning wood and will not hasten corrosion of metal.

A 3 ft. by 3 ft. by 1¾ inch solid core plywood finished door panel, surface treated with Flamort WC by Acme Flameproofing Company of San Francisco, was tested at The Twining Laboratories, Fresno, California, in accordance with the requirements of Federal Specification SS-A-118a, section F-3c (1), and met the requirements.

RECOMMENDATION: Because of the Flame spread rating, Flamort WC did not render the test materials incombustible and, therefore, the Committee recommends only the approval of the material known as Flamort WC for voluntary use in New York City on interior wood trim, combustible wood partitions and wood veneers installed in accordance with C26-667.3.5.7 and .8 of the Administrative Building Code, and on approved cellulose board to be used elsewhere than in public space and stair enclosures as set forth in Rule 3 of the Board's Rules on Uses of Fibre Board, also on hospital room wood doors that are at least 1¾ inches thick as provided in C26-689.1.b, Administrative Building Code and other non-rated wood doors used in acceptable locations.

The Committee further recommends that the containers in which the Flamort WC is packaged shall bear a label permanently affixed, reading: "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Cal. No. 684-63-SM", and also state the manufacturer's directions for proper application.

PROPOSED USE: Incombustible veneer, subdividing partition and balcony railing dividers.

DESCRIPTION: The material is a compressed asbestos cement panel. The material is the same as that approved under Cal. No. 581-53-SM, for United States Plywood Corp., except that the surface coating is eliminated. The board varies in thickness from $\frac{1}{8}$ " to $\frac{1}{4}$ ", and in sizes of 4'-0" x 8'-0" to 4'-0" x 10'-0". The weight of the material is as follows: $\frac{1}{8}$ " — 1.4 lbs./sq. ft.; $\frac{3}{16}$ " — 2.2 lbs./sq. ft. and $\frac{1}{4}$ " — 2.7 lbs./sq. ft.

4.1 FLASHING—No flashing shall occur at any time on the length of the test specimen. A flashing due to fuzz or bad edges may be disregarded.

4.2 DURATION OF FLAME—The average continuation of flaming shall not exceed 3 seconds.

4.3 DURATION OF GLOW—The average continuation of glow at the edge of the charred area shall not exceed an additional twenty seconds after the cessation of flaming. Glow confined to the charred area may be disregarded.

5.0 TESTS.

Tests for each specific installation of originally treated combustible material, or any re-tests thereof, shall be made by the Fire Commissioner, or in a laboratory approved by him, in accordance with the requirements of these Rules.

5.2 TEST SPECIMENS—Specimens for test shall be 2 in. wide and 12½ in. long and shall be numbered on one end. Test specimens shall be carefully cut from at least three different places in the material to provide a minimum of three test specimens from each material for testing.

5.3 CONDITIONING OF TEST SPECIMENS—The test samples or test specimens shall be dried for 24 hours in a room of average temperature of 70° F., with an average humidity of 40%.

5.4 TEST FOR PERMANENCE OF CHEMICALS—Test specimens shall be suspended by folding and pinning one-half inch of the numbered end over a horizontal 8-gauge wire, placed two inches above the center of a 7-inch opening in a 3-ft. wind tunnel arranged to deliver a wind velocity to the air, at the tunnel end, of 700 lineal feet, plus or minus 50 ft. per minute, as measured by a suitable anemometer on a line with the wire. In this position the test specimens shall be whipped for five minutes. Immediately upon conclusion of this test, the specimens shall be placed in a closed dry container until required for the flame test.

5.5 APPARATUS FOR FLAME TEST—The apparatus shall consist of a ring stand 20 inches high with an adjustable clamp housed in a metal shield 12 inches square and 20 inches high, opened in front and at both ends and a Bunsen or Tirrill gas burner which shall have a tube of ⅜-inch inside diameter.

5.6 FLAME TEST—A whipped test specimen shall be taken from the closed container required in Rule 5.4 and suspended vertically with one-half inch of the numbered end in a clip held in a clamp on a ring stand so that the test specimen shall hang vertically within and near the center of the metal shield required in Rule 5.5. The lower end of the test specimen shall be three-quarters of an inch above the top of the gas burner on which the air supply is shut off completely and adjusted to give a luminous flame 1½ inches long. The flame shall be applied for 12 seconds, then withdrawn. The result of the test for duration of flame and duration of glow of the three test specimens shall each be averaged and recorded. 641-64-SM

APPLICANT—Republic Steel Corporation, Manufacturing Division, owner.

APPEARANCES—

For Applicant: Gus Catzelis.

ACTION OF BOARD—Material approved in accordance with the report and recommendation of Committee on Test.

THE VOTE—

Affirmative: Chairman Foley, Vice Chairman Kleinert, Commissioner Fox, Commissioner Becker and Commissioner Klein

Negative:

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:

641-64-SM—Republic Steel Corp., Manufacturing Division, Youngstown, Ohio, filed for approval of the material known as J Series O.T. Joists under the provisions of Local Law 51 of 1962.

PROPOSED USE: Steel joists for use in all classes of construction.

DESCRIPTION: The joists are manufactured in depths ranging from 8" to 24", inclusive. The web member is a round bar ranging in diameter from 7/16" to 13/16". The top chord ranges in area from 0.425 sq. inches to 1.428 sq. inches and the lower chord from 0.357 sq. inches to 1.068 sq. inches.

The joists are designed in accordance with the Standard Specifications for Open Web Steel Joists of the Steel Joists Institute—Effective October 1, 1963.

INSPECTION AND TEST: Tests were conducted by the Department of Structural Engineering, School of Civil Engineering, Cornell University to show compliance with Local Law 51 of 1962.

The load tables submitted by the applicant are based on total load (live and dead) and it was necessary to determine what percentage of the published load would cause a deflection of 1/360 of the span. The figured loading is based on design moment for the total load, therefore the test was conducted to determine what percentage of the load would cause a deflection of 1/360, and allow that percentage of the total load to be assumed as the live load. The tests showed that the load required to cause a deflection of 1/360 of the span averaged 70% of their tabular load.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends the approval of the material known as J Series O.T. Joists as manufactured by Republic Steel Corporation, for use in New York City when installed in accordance with the requirements of Local Law 51 of 1962. The Committee further recommends approval of the load tables for the J Series O.T. Joists as submitted in the applicant's catalogue described as Republic O.T. Open Web Steel Joists, Copyright June 1964, except that the loads shown in that catalogue being based on total load (live and dead) shall be figured on the basis of 70% of the total load as the maximum live load and 30% of that total load as the minimum dead load. It is further recommended that all plans submitted to the Department of Buildings showing the proposed use of this construction shall be labeled "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Cal. No. 641-64-SM," and further that all bills of lading and/or shipping tickets shall be similarly marked.

(Sgd.) WILLIAM A. NOLAN,
Director,

JOHN A. DARTS,
Asst. Engr.,

GEORGE F. SKLENARIK,
Asst. Engr.,
Committee on Test.

Resolved, that the Board of Standards and Appeals does hereby approve this material in accordance with the above report.

COURT DECISION.

Matter of Fleming vs. Foley:—On November 19, 1963, the Board denied the application for a review of the decision of the Borough Superintendent in which he affirmed the issuance of a building permit; Calendar Number 475-63-A; Premises 118-18 Union Turnpike, west side, 75.31 feet north of Burns Street, Block 3334, Lot 151, Forest Hills, Borough of Queens.

At Supreme Court, Special Term, Part I, Mr. Justice Crisona sustained the Board as follows:

"The commission has found that a building seven-eighths as high as the width of the adjoining street would not render nugatory the benefits otherwise derived from public areas. Adson's proposed building hardly thwarts such a finding. Respondents' motions are accordingly, granted and the petition dismissed. Settle judgment."

(N. Y. Law Journal, June 9, 1964, pages 17 and 18).

The Appellate Division, Second Judicial Department By Beldock, P. J.; Ughetta, Christ, Hill and Rabin, JJ. in the Matter of Fleming, pet.-ap. (Foley, res.) rendered the following decision:

"Motions by respondents and intervenor-respondent to dismiss appeal granted; appeal dismissed without costs."

(N. Y. Law Journal, December 30, 1964, page 18).

Third, That no plea of ignorance of the date of the hearing can be entertained in view of this publication and of the posting of the calendars on the bulletin board in the offices of the Board.

Fourth, That no one is entitled to written notice of the date for the hearing in his case, and that the plea of failure to receive such notice is no excuse for neglect to appear.

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:

Cal. No. 578-51-SA—The ADT Company, Inc., New York, New York, filed for approval of the appliance known as ADT-Aero System under the provisions of the Fire Commissioners Requirements for the Installation of Automatic Thermostatic Fire Alarm Systems. The application was submitted for dismissal on December 4, 1962, but was restored to the calendar at the request of the applicant.

PROPOSED USE: A fire alarm system actuated by temperature rise.

DESCRIPTION: The ADT-Aero System consists of a continuous length of soft copper tubing approximately .05 of an inch I.D., and .08 of an inch O.D. Both ends of the tubing terminate in either a 774 type Aero Detector Unit or a D4202 type Detector-Transmitter. Each circuit is comprised of lengths of tubing joined together to form a continuous pneumatic unit. The pressure of the air contained in the system is normally that of the surrounding atmosphere. A slow rise in temperature of the surrounding air will produce a small pressure within the tubing. This pressure fully dissipates through vents in the detector unit.

If a rapid rise in temperature occurs, a greater pressure develops which cannot dissipate through the vents rapidly and so acts to distend the diaphragms of the detector unit and causes it to initiate a fire alarm signal.

The tubing is to be mounted where it will be amply exposed to the heat of any fire which may occur. In general, the tubing is installed along the ceiling of all protected areas, or in some cases it may be installed on the side walls near the ceiling as circumstances may require. This system is to be tested every 30 days by the central station for proper operation.

The following components are for use with the Aero System:

#790 to 790V aero tubing, #889 tubing clips, #886 tubing corner turns, #C887 tubing support and #888 tubing connector.

B4103 Aero Rosette used in small rooms in lieu of extending tubing about the room.

A temperature rise detector, the C4107 Aero loading coil box with PA21365 coils, used to eliminate false alarms in tubing runs up to 1000 ft. as might be caused by normal heat conditions.

The 4113 Aero fixed temperature attachment usually attached to the ceiling where unusually high temperature conditions exist and where therefor the use of a 794-A thermostat control unit would not be warranted.

A C5301 cabinet which is used to protect Aero detectors and detector transmitters from dusty atmospheres.

A 492 Outside Protection box which is used as weather protection for detectors or detector-transmitters when placed outdoors.

MINUTES

A C4111 Blower Heater Compensator which is used to minimize the adverse effects of blower type heater operation on Aero tubing circuits and maintain normal sensitivity of such circuits by allowing use of normal or slightly higher detector settings.

The E799 Control Unit which is a local non-coded fire alarm system control unit for transmitting non-coded signals to a remote headquarters. Any standard contact closing alarm devices such as water flow detectors, Aero detector units, thermostats or non-coded manual fire alarm stations may be connected to the E799 unit.

The C2108 Retard Transmitter Panel transmits coded alarm signals upon contact closure of any alarm initiating device connected to it. It also will transmit a one-round trouble signal in case of an open or ground in the transmitter circuit or battery power failure.

The B2616 Power Set consists of a cabinet containing a B2615 rectifier unit for direct current operation of equipment within its voltage and current limitations, 24 volts maximum.

The 2637 Power Set is designed for continuous power supply even when commercial power fails. It is used when d.c. power with standby storage battery is required for standard automatic fire alarm, water flow and sprinkler supervisory, industrial supervisory and recorder installations.

The D780 Annunciator Unit is a multiple zone annunciator with a single front glass for viewing the targets which are arranged in horizontal rows of four. It is used with central station connected or local automatic fire alarm systems to show the zone of protection. This equipment will be used with Model C3206 AC vibrating bell or model B3207 DC vibrating bell.

INSPECTION AND TEST: All data submitted was examined by Assistant Engineer G. F. Sklenarik.

The Fire Department has submitted a report, dated December 23, 1964, recommending approval of the ADT-Aero System and the components listed herein. The system and components are listed by U.L. and F.M.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends the approval of the appliance known as ADT Aero System and Components listed herein as a fire alarm system for use in New York City in accordance with the Fire Department's Requirements in Relation to the Installation of Automatic Thermostatic Fire Alarm Systems (January 13, 1948) and the Interior Fire Alarm Rules of the Board and the State Labor Law where it applies, provided that each control panel board or transmitter, gong or horn and station shall bear a metal label indicating the model number and any electrical data as may be required and the words: "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Cal. No. 578-51-SA".

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads: Cal. No. 579-51-SA—ADT Company, Inc., New York, New York, requested that the resolution adopted May 22, 1952, under Cal. No. 579-51-SA, be reopened and amended so as to include the ADT D1101 and D1103 Transmitter Panels, D2802 Power Supervisory Relay Unit, B6123 and B6123D Waterflow Detector-Transmitters, B6123-D-1 Waterflow Detector-Transmitter, and B6124 Waterflow Detector.

PROPOSED USE: Components of a sprinkler fire alarm system.

DESCRIPTION: The D1101 Alarm Transmitter Panel is similar in design and function to the previously approved XS-400 transmitter panel, except that it is designed to transmit a five round alarm signal, a two round trouble signal and a one round restoration signal. The XS-400 panel transmits a two round trouble signal and a one round restoration signal.

The D1101 transmitter is actuated by detectors such as the previously approved #498 waterflow detector and #68 waterflow alarm switch.

The D1103 Alarm is similar to the D1101 transmitter but has a 3 second retard period and locks in the alarm condition once the retard period has been exceeded. It is designed specifically for use with the previously approved #497 waterflow detector.

The D2802 Power Supervisory Relay Unit is used primarily to supervise fire pump power supplies. It is available for 2 and 3 phase voltages of 220, 440, 480, and 550, 60 cycle a.c.

The B6123 Waterflow Detector Transmitter is a vane type waterflow detector designed for installation on a sprinkler system riser and has an integral transmitter unit which transmits a five round alarm signal and a one round restoration signal. It is similar to the previously approved B498 waterflow detector.

The B6123D Waterflow Detector Transmitter is similar to the B6123, but the transmitter mechanism has been altered to make it a slow speed device for use with the ADT Watch Report and Fire Alarm System.

The B6123-D-1 Waterflow Detector Transmitter is similar to the B6123-D, except that it has a separate insulated signal wheel for sounding local coded gongs in conjunction with an approved control panel.

The B6124 Waterflow Detector is similar to the B6123 unit, except that it does not contain a transmitter mechanism. Where a separate signal is not required from each detector, up to five B6124 detectors may be connected to one D1101 transmitter.

A report from the Fire Department recommending approval of these alarm components is on file with the record.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends that the resolution adopted May 22, 1952, under Cal. No. 579-51-SA, be reopened and amended so as to include the ADT D1101 and D1103 Transmitter Panels, D2802 Power Supervisory Relay Unit, B6123 and B6123D Waterflow Detector Transmitters, B6123-D-1 Waterflow Detector Transmitter, and B6124 Waterflow Detector, on condi-

ACTION OF BOARD—Application reopened and resolution amended in accordance with the report and recommendation of the Committee on Test.

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:

Cal. No. 584-51-SA—ADT Company, Inc., New York, New York, requested that the resolution adopted May 22, 1952, under Cal. No. 584-51-SA, be reopened and amended so as to include the Model ADT C3206 A.C. Vibrating Alarm Bell.

PROPOSED USE: As a continuous sounding fire alarm bell signal for use in non-coded systems.

DESCRIPTION: The C3206 type bell will supersede the previously approved Plug-In Ellbell which is similar. As before, it is a contactless vibrating solenoid type A.C. bell. It is available in 60 cycle a.c. voltages of 6, 11, 24, 48, 110 or 220 volts with a 6, 8 or 10 inch gong.

Closure of the alarm circuit allows alternating current to flow through the solenoid coil. During half of the alternating current cycle, the magnetic force produced adds to the force of the permanent magnet installed therein, causing the plunger to be drawn into the solenoid coil striking the gong. During the second half of the alternating cycle, the reversal of the current causes the forces of the solenoid and permanent magnet to oppose one another, thereby reducing the force on the plunger which is then drawn away from the gong by a coiled spring. This cycle is repetitive.

The Fire Department has submitted a report, dated December 23, 1964, recommending approval of this device.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends that the resolution adopted May 22, 1952, under Cal. No. 584-51-SA, be reopened and amended so as to include the Model ADT C3206 A.C. Vibrating Alarm Bell, on condition that the requirements of the resolution adopted May 22, 1952, under Cal. No. 584-51-SA, and the recommendations of the Fire Department be complied with.

For Applicant: Arthur Wieboldt.

ACTION OF BOARD—Appliance approved in accordance with the report and recommendation of Committee on Test.

THE VOTE—

Affirmative: Chairman Foley, Vice Chairman Kleinert, Commissioner Fox, Commissioner Becker and Commissioner Klein 5

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:

Cal. No. 896-64-SA—ADT Company, Inc., New York, New York, filed for approval of the appliance known as ADT C2112-2-12 (SA-26982) Transmitter Panel, the B2502 Impulse Accumulator Panel, the 2129 Fire Alarm Transmitter Unit, and the 2129-S Fire Alarm Transmitter Unit under the provisions of the Interior Fire Alarm Rules of the Board.

PROPOSED USE: Components for central office connections on interior alarms.

DESCRIPTION: The C2112-2-12 transmitter panel contains two signal transmitting mechanisms—one for alarm signals and one for supervisory signals. Alarm and supervisory signals are distinguished from each other by the number of times each signal is repeated. An alarm signal is repeated 5 times, whereas a supervisory signal is repeated only twice. A single signal is transmitted from each mechanism to indicate the restoration of normal conditions at the premises. The transmitters are spring-driven mechanisms which are electrically actuated. The spring-driven assembly is maintained in a "ready-to-go" condition by a self-contained electric motor which automatically winds the driving springs after the mechanism has operated.

The tie-in between the transmitter panel and the local fire alarm system is made with relays which are connected to the alarm bell and trouble bell circuits. When the alarm bells sound, the relay connected to the alarm bell circuit automatically operates the alarm transmitter so that a 5-round alarm signal is sent to the central station. Similarly, if trouble develops in the internal circuits of the local fire alarm system, or when the main gong circuit power fails, the trouble bell operates, and the relay connected to this bell circuit will automatically operate the supervisory transmitter so that a 2-round supervisory signal is transmitted to the central station.

Restoration of both alarm and supervisory transmitters is automatic when local fire alarm system conditions are restored to normal.

If the local fire alarm system is a coded system, i.e., the alarm bells operate in a series of audible taps, an impulse accumulator panel, B2502, is used to distinguish between random taps on the bells caused by system troubles and a bona fide alarm. The impulse accumulator panel requires a minimum of 3 successive taps on the bells before it operates the alarm transmitter.

A test feature is provided to make an audible test of the interior fire alarm system without transmitting an alarm signal to the central station. For a non-code system using continuously sounding vibrating bells, this test feature consists of a key-operated switch which, when operated by an authorized person, sounds the bells and simultaneously places a shunt across the alarm transmitter to prevent its operation for alarm. This switch is of the momentary contact type so that it cannot be left in the test position, thereby de-activating the alarm transmitter for extended periods of time. If the system is of the coded type, a key-operated test box is used to give two taps on the bells while simultaneously transmitting a test signal to the central station. She two taps on the bells, of course, do not initiate an alarm signal because the impulse accumulator panel will respond to a minimum of three taps.

The 2129 transmitter unit consists of the B2502 Impulse Accumulator Panel, the transmitter mechanism from the ADT-2122, Fire Alarm Transmitter and a relay, all mounted in a smaller cabinet on which is mounted a switch to prevent central office signals when test signals are sounded. This unit transmits fire alarm signals only from the interior fire alarm system.

The 2129-S transmitter consists of a B2502 Impulse Accumulator Panel, a D1101-A Type Transmitter Panel and two relays, all mounted in the same smaller cabinet which also has the switch to prevent central office signals. In addition, this unit transmits trouble signals when a fault occurs in the interior fire alarm system.

INSPECTION AND TEST: All data submitted was examined by Assistant Engineer G. F. Sklenarik.

The Fire Department has tested this equipment and their report, dated December 23, 1964, recommending approval has been received.

The B2502 Impulse Accumulator Panel and the C2112 Transmitter Panel are listed by Underwriters' Laboratories.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends the approval of the appliance known as ADT C2112-2-12 (SA-26982) Transmitter Panel, the B2502 Impulse Accumulator Panel, the 2129 Fire Alarm Transmitter Unit, and the 2129-S Fire Alarm Unit for use in New York City under the provisions of the Interior Fire Alarm Rules of the Board and the requirements of the Fire Department, provided that each control panel board will bear a metal label indicating the model number and any electrical data, as may be required, and the words: "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Cal. No. 896-64-SA."

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads: Cal. No. 44-58-SA—Acme Fire Alarm Company, Inc., New York, New York, requested that the resolution adopted May 13, 1958, under Cal. No. 44-58-SA, be reopened and amended so as to include the Acme Type 418B Smoke Detector.

PROPOSED USE: A smoke detecting device to be installed in air duct systems.

DESCRIPTION: The Type 418B Smoke Detector, just as the previously approved Type 418A detector, depends for its operation on the interference of a light beam by smoke passing through an air duct.

Abnormal smoke density, equivalent to 2% per foot length of light beam, upon entering through the openings in the labyrinth causes the reflection of the light beam to a cadmium sulphide photo conducting cell. The electrical resistance of the cell thereby drops to a point allowing sufficient voltage to pass to the thyatron tube to cause current flow to a D.C. relay which is energized and locked in by means of the test lamp now shining directly at the photo cell. This relay stops the fan motors and actuates the alarm circuits.

A calibrating resistor, a component in the detector unit, is factory adjusted for the desired operational percentage of smoke.

The Fire Department has inspected the equipment and has submitted a report, dated January 19, 1965, recommending the acceptance of this device.

This detector has Underwriters' Laboratories approval.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on test recommends that the resolution adopted May 13, 1958, under Cal. No. 44-58-SA, be reopened and amended so as to include the Acme Type 418B Smoke Detector, on condition that the requirements of the resolution adopted May 13, 1958, under Cal. No. 44-58-SA, and of the Rules of the Department of Buildings Relating to the Installation of Ventilating and Air Conditioning Systems, where not inconsistent with the provisions of C26-259.c Administrative Building Code, be complied with.

82-59-SM

APPLICANT—Inland Manufacturing Division of General Motors Corporation, owner.

APPEARANCES—

For Applicant: Carl A. Schroeder.

ACTION OF BOARD—Material approved in accordance with the report and recommendation of Committee on Test.

THE VOTE—

Affirmative: Chairman Foley, Commissioner Becker and Commissioner Klein 3

Negative: Vice Chairman Kleinert and Commissioner Fox 2

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads: 82-59-SM—Inland Manufacturing Division of General Motors Corp., Dayton, Ohio, filed for approval of the material known as Interlock Structural Neoprene Gasket under the provisions of C26-550.2, Administrative Building Code.

Standard Products Company, Cleveland, Ohio, submitted an affidavit showing that they have purchased all rights, assets, compounds, etc., and are now the owner-manufacturer, and that the material is marketed under the trade name of Stanlock Neoprene Gasket.

PROPOSED USE: Used for the installation of glass, spandrels and panels.

DESCRIPTION: The gasket is made of neoprene and consists of the gasket proper, filler strip and filler strip channel.

The gasket is designed for each specific job for the size of the opening; therefore, the gasket is one piece when installed. The lock strip is mitered at the corners which has nothing to do with the gasket, except exert the required pressure.

The various sizes and shapes are designed for the type of construction in which the glass is to be installed, and also for the thickness of the glass used. As it should be noted that the legs of the gasket fitting over the construction and holding the glass are always in the same plane on the outside face.

The gasket goes into the sash, starting at the top working from the center, the balance of the gasket is then inserted. The glass is then inserted into the bottom channel of the gasket. The filler strip is then inserted into a smaller channel creating a compression on the gasket, thereby holding the pane in place.

INSPECTION AND TESTS: Samples of the material and the method of inserting the glass panes were inspected by the Supervisory Committee of the Board and the Committee on Test.

The applicant has also submitted test reports from various agencies. Among them is the result of test conducted by Bowser-Morner Testing Laboratories, Inc., Dayton, Ohio, showing that the ignition temperature is 650°F, which precludes the use of this material as an incombustible material.

The applicant has also submitted copies of the approvals granted by the cities of Detroit and Baltimore.

The applicant has also submitted a report of test conducted by General Bronze Corp., showing that it required a loading of 39 p.s.f. to destroy the panel, the test panel being 6'-0" x 11'-0", and it was a case of the glass breaking rather than the glass pulling out of the gasket material. Additional load tests were conducted by the Hoffman

LaRoche Research Tower, Nutley, New Jersey, showing that failure occurred at 40 p.s.f. by glass failure, and on a subsequent test 50 p.s.f. by the gasket rolling out. The reports are on file with and are part of the record.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends that this material shall not be used under the provisions of C26-550.2, Administrative Building Code as the requirements state that where glass is used for facing of exterior walls of buildings, the glass shall be firmly held in a metal frame continuously on all edges.

The Committee does recommend, however, that this material may be used as a frame for exterior windows, provided that the height of the structure shall not exceed 150'-0", and further that this frame shall not be used in required fire resistive opening protective assemblies.

The Committee further recommends that all cartons, in which the material is marketed, shall be labeled: "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Cal. 82-59-SM", and that all plans submitted to the Department of Buildings, showing the proposed use of this material, shall be similarly marked.

The Committee still further recommends that the following gaskets be approved for the corresponding glass thickness:

PLATE GLASS THICKNESS	GASKET NO.	PLATE GLASS THICKNESS	GASKET NO.
3/16"	SL-1750 SL-1751 SL-1755 SL-1756 SL-1753	5/16"	SL-2264 SL-2254 SL-2257

		THERMO-PANE

And further that the area of glass shall be as set forth in the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company Technical Service Report No. 101, or Libby-Owens Ford Glass Company for Construction 1965, except that in the case of 1/2 inch thick glass, the maximum area shall not exceed 178 sq. ft., and still further that the gasket shall engage or be engaged on all four sides by a rigid frame of metal or masonry.

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads: 138-63-SA—Weldox Equipment Company, New York, New York, applicant, filed for National Equipment Co., Richmond, California, owner-mfr., requesting that the resolution adopted September 24, 1963, be reopened and amended so as to include new models of National cutting and welding blow pipe gas and oxygen torches under the provisions of Section C19-93.0, Administrative Code.

DESCRIPTION: The following description includes National Model numbers 30 WT, 50 WT, 52 WT, 110 WT, 160 WT, 15CA, 25CA, 210CA, 300 CT, 310 CT, and 400 CT. All of the above are of the same basic design, function and application. Variations occur only in physical size to limit the range of application.

WELDING BLOWPIPES: (Models 30 WT, 50 WT, 52 WT, 110 WT, 160 WT.) WT=Welding Torch.

The valves are of the usual needle valve type, closing off against the pressure. The valve stem is constructed to prevent removal from the packing by unscrewing. Non interchangeable hose connections are used, right-hand thread for oxygen, and left-hand thread for acetylene. The oxygen and acetylene tubes are of the seamless type. One end of each tube is flared and silver soldered to the butt piece. The other ends are silver soldered into the mixer end piece. The blowpipe handle is of fluted brass tubing. All non gas carrying spaces and the handle are vented to the outside atmosphere. The mixer is of brass, is threaded to fit the end piece and is provided with regularly drilled holes for oxygen and acetylene. The mixer is provided with 0 rings to affect the separation of gases at this point.

CUTTING BLOWPIPE ATTACHMENT FOR THE ABOVE: (Includes models 15CA, 25CA, 210CA). CA=Cutting Attachment. The cutting blowpipes are designed for use with the above-described welding torch. The high pressure oxygen valve mechanism consists of a valve stem upon which is mounted a brass valve seat. The seat is held closed by the valve spring. The valve is opened by depressing the control lever which actuates the bell crank lever, thus lifting the valve seat against the high pressure gas. The handle is of fluted brass tubing. The handle front piece is of cast brass and is provided with three tube holes and mounting post for the high pressure valve control lever. The oxygen and acetylene is delivered to the mixing head through separate tubes which are set into the head and valve body at the ends, a distance of one diameter apart, and are silver soldered in place.

CUTTING TORCHES: (Models 300CT, 310CT, and 400CT.) These blowpipes conform in basic design to the above-mentioned equipment except that the units are constructed in one piece to include the handle. All tubes are cupro nickel and are silver soldered at the butt and head ends. The needle valves at the butt end are identical to those described above. The high pressure valve is cam actuated type. All non gas carrying spaces in the handle are vented to the outside atmosphere.

INSPECTION AND TEST: All data submitted was examined by Engineer James B. Anderson, Jr. All of the requested models and attachments have been approved by Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc., under File No. SA493 revised November 26, 1962, and their detailed report is with and part of the file record.

RECOMMENDATION: On the basis of the details, data and samples submitted by the applicant, the Committee on Test recommends that the resolution adopted September 24, 1963 be reopened and amended so as to include the National (JM) trademark, Models 30 WT, 50 WT, 52 WT, 110 WT, and 160 WT welding torches, 15CA, 25CA and 210CA cutting attachments, 300 CT, 310 CT and 400 CT cutting torches, in accordance with this report and C19-93.0, Administrative Code, on condition that the requirements of the resolution adopted September 24, 1963, under Calendar Number 138-63-SA, be complied with.

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:

205-63-SM—National Gypsum Company, Buffalo, New York, filed for approval of the material known as Gold Bond Fire-Shield Acoustiroc Acoustical Tile under the provisions of C26-88.0, C26-191.0, C26-588.0 through C26-590.0, C26-600.0 through C26-603.0 and C26-609.0, Administrative Building Code.

PROPOSED USE: Ceiling fireproofing in fire rated floor & ceilings assembly and as one-hour fire rated short span ceiling.

DESCRIPTION: The tile is identical in composition being a mineral fiber tile to the material previously approved under Cal. No. 57-58-SM, and is supplied $\frac{3}{4}$ " x 12" x 12" and up to 24" x 24" in size with a textured, striated, fissured or needle perforated surface for ventilating or without through perforations. The surface is painted and may include a Plasticrylic washable surface.

INSPECTION AND TEST: Fire resistance tests as herein described were conducted at Underwriters' Laboratories, Chicago, in accordance with the requirements of ASTM E119 and the Administrative Building Code. In the construction tested under U. L. R4337-9, the floor consisted of 2- $\frac{1}{2}$ " sand-gravel concrete over a blend steel deck (flat faced cellular and fluted steel units) supported by a steel beam. The floor and beam were protected by a suspended ceiling of 12"x12" Gold Bond Fire-Shield Acoustiroc Acoustical Tile as described above that were supported by the Gold Bond "J" Suspension System, previously approved under Cal. 754-52-SM, which was attached to 1- $\frac{1}{2}$ " carrying channels, previously approved under Cal. 342-39-SM, spaced 4' o.c. which were suspended from the floor by hangers spaced 4' o.c. as required under C26-461.0, Administrative Building Code. Light fixtures may be included in the ceiling, not to exceed 16% of the ceiling area, protected by light fixture boxes fabricated from $\frac{3}{4}$ " Gold Bond Fire-Shield T-Panels, previously approved under Cal. 616-60-SM. Dampened air ducts may penetrate the ceiling with no duct openings to exceed 152 sq. in. per 100 sq. ft. of ceiling area. The floor-ceiling successfully met the requirements for a 3-hour fire resistance rating and the beam met requirements for a 4-hour fire resistance rating. The complete report is on file with and is part of the record.

In accordance with the provisions of Section C26-603.0, Administrative Building Code, Gold Bond Fire-Shield Acoustiroc Acoustical Tile, $\frac{3}{4}$ " x 12" x 12" up to 24" x 24" qualify for use as a short span fire resistive ceiling material of 1-hour fire rating based on U. L. Report R4337-5 as the temperature on the steel was well below 800°F at the required time.

Based on the results of U. L. test R4337, dated June 1, 1962, one access tile per 100 sq. ft. of ceiling may be installed in fire-resistive floor-ceiling assemblies and the short span fire resistive ceiling herein described and as previously approved under Cal. 57-58-SM when the Gold Bond Fire-Shield Acoustiroc access tiles are supported by an approved metal access system.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends approval for the use of the material known as Gold Bond Fire-Shield Acoustiroc Acoustical Tile as herein described as ceiling fireproofing and as providing a 3-hour fire resistive rating for the floor-ceiling and a 4-hour fire resistive rating for the steel beam in an assembly as herein described with U. L. Report R4337-9, and in accordance with Dwg. 4337-9, except that wire hangers shall not be used. Approved hangers as required under C26-461.0, Administrative Building Code, shall be used to support the suspended ceiling.

The Committee further recommends that access tiles with limitations as herein before specified may be included in the ceilings and that incombustible Gold Bond Fire-Shield Acoustiroc Acoustical Tile, $\frac{3}{4}$ " x 12" x 12" up to 24" x 24" of themselves, when supported by the "J" mechanical suspension system and where the span exceeds 4' in turn shall be supported by 1- $\frac{1}{2}$ " carrying channels spaced not over 4' o.c., shall be approved as a 1-hour fire rated ceiling under the provisions of C26-603.0, Administrative Building Code for use in all classes of construction where a 1-hour fire rated ceiling material is required, on condition that all plans submitted to the Department of Buildings, showing the proposed use of these constructions, shall be stamped: "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Cal. 1-64-SM—Formulate Development and Research Corporation, Forest Hills, New York, filed for approval of the material known as Plast-O-Set under the provisions of C26-191.0 and C26-467.0 Administrative Building Code.

PROPOSED USE: Material to bond plaster to concrete

DESCRIPTION: The mixture is of a proprietary nature and therefore the Board has placed the formula in a sealed envelope and placed it in the Board's safe so that it can be examined at any time if the need arises.

INSPECTION & TEST: Tests were conducted by National Testing Laboratories, New York City. The tests consisted of tensile strengths, tests of briquets of various materials such as finish plaster, acoustical plaster, 1:3 brown coat plater, 1:3 perlite plaster, 1:3 Ottawa sand, 1:3 Cowboy sand, and neat cement. The second test 1 and subjecting these specimens to a tensile test and comparing the results of tests 1 and 2. The third test consisted of using one-half of the briquet in test 1 and cementing plaster mixes to form the other half of the briquet; these briquets were then tested in tension. The results of the tests were satisfactory. The material was also tested in vibration and also for toxicity. The complete report is on file with and is part of the record.

RECOMMENDATION: On the basis of the tests and the data filed by the applicant, the Committee on Test recommends the approval of the material known as Plast-O-Set as manufactured by Formulate Development and Research Corporation for voluntary use in New York City as a bonding agent to bond plaster to concrete or to cement mortar. The Committee further recommends that this material may be used as an adhesive to bond a finish coat directly over concrete, provided a three coat plaster is not required, for example, a lime putty finish coat on concrete columns.

It is further recommended that in no way shall this material be construed to be the equivalent nor shall it be used in lieu of a coat of plaster, and further, that each container in which the material is marketed shall be labeled "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Calendar Number 1-64-SM".

PROPOSED USE: To make tight joints in hot and cold water, steam, natural gas, propane, butane, oil and gasoline piping.

DESCRIPTION: Permatex 51 is a non-setting cement consisting of a gasoline insoluble pitch, polymerized vegetable oil, a wetting or disposing agent, inert filler such as clay, talc or asbestos, and a mixture of isopropyl alcohol and toluene as solvent.

The manufacturing process for Permatex 51 is similar to that used in making the previously approved Permatex pipe joint compound under Cal. No. 693-49-SM. Permatex #51 will also be packaged in ¼ pint, 1 pint and 1 gallon cans.

INSPECTION AND TEST: Permatex #51 was tested at the Underwriters' Laboratories and after extensive tests the following results were noted:

The product is effective in the sealing of threaded and other closely fitting metal joints against leakage of propane, butane, gasoline or petroleum oils, and natural gas.

In the leakage tests, there was no leakage of gasoline, propane or butane during three months when pipe assembly blies, carrying a number of joints sealed with the product, were exposed to an average gauge pressure of 30 psig gasoline or the vapor pressure of propane or butane up to 119°F. corresponding to 70 psig for butane and 220 psig for propane. The joints so sealed were also tight to gasoline in all hydrostatic tests made at pressures up to 300 psig.

The product appeared to be practically unaffected by contact with air and showed no undue tendency to corrode metals.

The flash point is 56°F. closed cup. There is no tendency to heat spontaneously.

Cal. No. 244-64-SA—Detrex Chemical Industries, Inc., Detroit, Michigan, filed for approval of the appliance known as Detrex Econ-O-Perk, Models 32 and 62 under the provisions of the Board's Rules Covering Dry Cleaning Establishments, Coin Operated or Non-Coin Operated.

PROPOSED USE: To recover perchlorethylene vapors.

DESCRIPTION: The Detrex Model 32 Econ-O-Perk is a single recovery unit 2' 10" wide, 3' 10½" deep and 5' 7" high. It is fabricated of 10-gauge sheet steel with a protective coated inner surface and welded seams.

The unit has an air handling capacity of 400 CFM supplied by fan, driven by a ¾ hp. motor. Its maximum solvent retention capacity is approximately 4 gallons adsorbed in activated carbon pellets. The carbon charge is adequate to adsorb the vapors normally generated in the dry cleaning of 600 lbs. of garments per 8-hour period.

A lint trap, solvent strainer, water cooled condenser, water and solvent separator and guide dampers are built into the unit.

When the fan motor is turned on, the unit draws in solvent vapors from the dry cleaning machine, the drying tumbler if one is used in the cleaning process and also through any floor pickups by means of conveying ducts. These vapors are directed through the bed of activated carbon, are adsorbed, and the residual air is then exhausted through an opening which has a duct leading to outdoors.

When the unit is to be "stripped" of solvent, the fan motor is shut off, the dampers are closed by means of control knobs on the unit and steam, from a separate source, is supplied to the carbon bed at a pressure not exceeding 30 psi. Steam control valves and a pressure regulator are provided. The carbon bed section of the unit is equipped with an open vent to allow escape of excess steam. Water at a maximum pressure of 20 psi is supplied to the condenser where the vaporized solvent and steam are liquified and flow to the separator. The condensed water is piped to waste and the perchlorethylene is received in a container or is piped back to the storage tank of the dry cleaning machine.

After recovering the solvent from the unit, the steam valves are closed, the water to the condenser is shut off, the damper positions are reversed and the fan is switched on. The carbon bed is then dried out for ten minutes before the unit is placed in use.

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:
651-49-SA—Amendment to resolution as to alternate method of handling condensate.

Manning & Lewis Engineering Company, Union, New Jersey, requested that the resolution adopted July 11, 1950, under Cal. No. 651-49-SA, be reopened and amended so as to consider the use of the condensate instead of discharging the condensate to waste.

PROPOSED USE: Preheater for heavy fuel oil.

DESCRIPTION: There has been no change in the construction of the heater. The request is to consider the use of the condensate instead of discharging the condensate to waste.

The manner by which this will be achieved is as follows:

The system consists of a Inspection Tank for the condensate leaving the Preheater, a probe scanner to detect any oil contamination and a master control relay that activates two (2) solenoid operated condensate flow valves in response to the signals received from the probe scanner. These valves may be inserted in either the up or down stream line.

All the condensate leaving the preheater passes into the inspection tank under electronic probing for purity by the scanning probe. As long as the probing indicates that the condensate is uncontaminated, the condensate passes out of the inspection tank to the condensate return system.

However, if the probe detects the presence of oil in the condensate, it triggers the inlet solenoid valve to the inspection tank and opens a by-pass solenoid valve directing all condensate flow to waste.

At the same time audible and visible warnings are set off so that remedial action shall be taken. There shall be a man with a Cert. of Fitness present at all times.

The inspection tank is such that the contaminated condensate setting off the relay remains trapped in the inspection tank and cannot pass on to the condensate return system. This contaminated condensate is then withdrawn from the inspection tank through a scavenger line leading to waste.

Only after the preheater has been repaired and the condensate tests clean, can the flow to the condensate return system be restored.

INSPECTION AND TEST: The schematic arrangement of the system was examined by Assistant Engineer J. A. Darts.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends that the resolution adopted July 11, 1950, under Cal. No. 651-49-SA, be reopened and amended so as to permit the use of clean condensate in lieu of discharging to the sewer when the installation is as herein described, on condition that all other requirements of the resolution adopted July 11, 1950, under Cal. No. 651-49-SA, are complied with.

ACTION OF BOARD—Application reopened and resolution amended in accordance with the report and recommendation of the Committee on Test.

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:

870-49-SM—Amendment to resolution as to additional vacuum breaker.

Sloan Valve Company, Chicago, Illinois, requested that the resolution adopted May 2, 1950 under Cal. No. 870-49-SM, be reopened and amended so as to include all additional vacuum breaker.

PROPOSED USE: Vacuum breaker in the flush connection of a flush valve.

DESCRIPTION: The proposed Model V-500-AA is comprised of a 1½" brass outlet tube having a series of air vents arranged around the upper end with a flexible Neoprene sleeve inserted in the tube, with a Nylon insert in the flexible sleeve, both elements arranged in spaced relationship in the outlet tube. The Nylon insert is provided with three water ports and projects down into the flexible sleeve.

The Nylon insert, flexible sleeve and outlet tube, each have a flange formed on the upper ends where they are clamped together as a unit by a 1½" I.P. size threaded flush valve coupling.

The flexible sleeve is slotted at the bottom with three slots at 120° to each other. At the extreme outer edge of each slotted portion is a slight projection of rubber to hold the flexible sleeve away from the inner wall of the tube for easier admission of air into the flush tube at the end of each flush valve operation.

As the water passes through the unit, the flexible sleeve expands to seal off the air inlet ports in the brass tube. Under vacuum conditions in the supply pipe, the rubber tube is forced against the water inlet ports in the Nylon insert, and away from the air inlet ports in the outlet tube, thus permitting the entrance of air to check the influence of vacuum condition below the vacuum breaker proper.

The Model V-500-A—The principle of operation is identical to the Model V-500-AA, with the exception that this model has a 1½" female iron pipe thread at the top and a male iron pipe thread at the bottom for a slip joint connection.

INSPECTION AND TEST: The two models are approved by the Cities of Chicago, Detroit and Los Angeles.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends that the resolution adopted May 2, 1950, under Cal. No. 870-49-SM, be reopened and amended so as to include the additional vacuum breakers, Models V-500-AA and V-500-A, on condition that the requirements of the requirements of the resolution adopted May 2, 1950, under Cal. THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads: Cal. No. 198-64-SA—Ohio Chemical & Surgical Equipment Co., a Division of Air Reduction Company, Inc., Madison, Wisconsin, filed for approval of the appliance known as Air Reduction Co. Nitrous Oxide Receivers, 2½ to 12 ton capacity under the provisions of Article 17 and Article 18, Chapter 19, Administrative Code.

PROPOSED USE: To receive, store and gasify liquid nitrous oxide.

DESCRIPTION: Each receiver consists of an insulated storage tank that will be made of carbon steel, aluminum, Everdur or stainless steel. This tank is designed and tested in accordance with the A.S.M.E. code for unfired pressure vessels for 350 psi working pressure. A manhole is built into one end to allow internal inspection.

The insulation around the tank is approximately 4 inches thick, of incombustible foamglas, and is covered with an outer shell of steel or aluminum.

In order to maintain the pressure of the liquid nitrous oxide at or below tank design pressure, a refrigerating system is installed adjacent to the receiver.

Controlled automatic heat required to maintain the predetermined pressure of gas from the receiver to the service line is supplied to a vaporizer. This heat may be obtained from the ambient air, steam or electrical energy. The vaporizer is constructed to meet the A.S.M.E. code and is so marked. Controls turn the vaporizer off and on to maintain the desired pressure which may vary from a minimum of 180 psi to a maximum of 320 psi.

If, because of non-use, the pressure in the receiver should rise to a pressure in excess of the service pressure, the refrigerating unit is automatically actuated and the gas in the head space of the receiver is cooled by a refrigerant circulating through a coil mounted in the gas head space of the receiver. If the automatic controls should fail, for any reason, including power failure, the receiver is protected by two safety relief valves and the vaporizer by an additional relief valve set at design working pressure. The receiver is further protected by a frangible disc designed to rupture at a pressure lower than the test pressure.—475 psi.

The refrigerating system, Copeland or equal, is driven by an electric motor sized to meet the requirements of the receiver and uses a Freon-type refrigerant. The unit is provided with a pressure relief valve.

Liquid nitrous oxide will be received by flexible hose or pipe connection from a mobile truck. A Barton or equal liquid level gauge and a pressure gauge are installed.

INSPECTION AND TEST: All data submitted was examined by Assistant Engineer G. F. Sklenarik.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee recommends the approval of the appliance known as Air Reduction Co. Nitrous Oxide Receivers, 2½ to 12 ton capacity in accordance with this report and the data submitted by the applicant, provided that the equipment will be installed outdoors or within a fire-proof building that is adequately vented and that will have an area that can be occupied exclusively by the receiver and auxiliary equipment such as cylinder manifolds. The discharge of gas from relief valves and frangible disc shall be to outdoors through the roof or wall terminating at least 12 feet above the ground. The location and maintenance of the appliance shall be to the satisfaction of the Fire Commissioner. For all installations, plans shall be filed with the Department of Buildings showing the installation and floor loading for approval.

Each appliance shall bear a label, permanently affixed, reading: "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Cal. No. 198-64-SA".

265-64-SM—Craig Steel Equipment Company, Inc., Union City, New Jersey, filed for approval of the material known as Craig $2\frac{3}{8}$ inch F. C. Flush Partition under the provisions of C26-667.0.5, Administrative Building Code.

PROPOSED USE: Incombustible Subdividing Partition. (non rated)

DESCRIPTION: The partition consists of the panels, posts and accessory parts.

The panels are of the flush type with post covers and are rockwool insulated. The plates of the panels are 18-gauge steel with horizontal reinforcements 12 inches apart welded to back face of panel plates.

The structural vertical upright of the panel is 18-gauge steel rolled shape, flush with panel plates of 20 gauge. Vertical uprights of adjacent panels composing a post are shaped to provide positive engagement by means of 12-gauge friction type clips, which space and hold panel unit uprights in positive position and also provide for engagement of No. 18-gauge snap-on post covers.

The top rails and transom rails are of 18-gauge steel shapes for steel or glass panel units.

The base is 18-gauge steel rolled shape that is 6 inches high.

The ceiling trim is 18-gauge steel which is fastened to the ceiling and runs continuously over the top of all units to provide rigidity.

INSPECTION AND TEST: Details of the partition were examined by Assistant Engineer J. A. Darts, and it was noted that all component parts of the partition were incombustible materials.

Treated Novoply Core Panel under the provisions of C26-191.0, Administrative Building Code.

PROPOSED USE: Fire treated architectural panel.

DESCRIPTION: The panel is an integrally treated 3-ply wood particle-board of sandwich construction having dense outer plies of thins Douglas Fir flakes with 14% resin content and a core of medium dense Douglas Fir and Pine chips with a resin content of 7%. The panels range in thickness from $\frac{3}{8}$ inch to $1\frac{1}{4}$ inches and in sizes up to 4'-0" x 16'-0".

This core may be used in the state as described above or it may serve as a core over which is laminated a 1-ply face and back consisting of $\frac{1}{28}$ inch wood veneer or a 2-ply face consisting of $\frac{1}{16}$ inch wood cross band and $\frac{1}{28}$ inch wood face veneer. A high pressure plastic laminate may be substituted for the wood face veneer.

INSPECTION AND TEST: The applicant has submitted a report of test conducted by Manhattan College showing that the core material met the requirements of "Fireproofed Wood", as set forth under C26-331.0 through C26-339.0, Administrative Building Code.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test is of the opinion that as these panels are architectural panels and that the sampling at the job site, as required under C26-331.0 Administrative Building Code, would destroy the panel; therefore, the Committee recommends the approval of the material known as Treated Novoply Core Panel for voluntary use in New York City, on condition that the sampling, as required under C26-331.0 Administrative Building Code, may be certified at the applicant's plant and the tests as required under C26-332.0 through C26-339.0 Administrative Building Code, may be conducted at the plant and so certified by a disinterested qualified agency. The Committee further recommends that United States Plywood Corporation shall supply to their distributors such as lumber yards, millwork houses, etc., a copy of such certification stating that the material shipped meets the requirements of C26-331.0 through C26-339.0 Administrative Building Code after testing at the plant, and further that the panels be labeled: "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Cal. WHEREAS, the decision of the Borough Superintendent, dated July 12, 1963 and August 20, 1964 on N.B. Applic. 2-63, reads:

"The above application was approved in error and therefore the permit issued on the application Permit No. 3188, dated June 20, 1963, is hereby revoked and rendered void. You are ordered to stop all construction of the proposed building until the application has been approved properly and until a new permit has been obtained.

*CORRECTION

That portion of the minutes of the meeting of the Board of Standards and Appeals held on June 30, 1964 as they appeared in Bulletin No. 28, Vol. 49 are hereby corrected to read as follows:

321-62-SM

APPLICANT—Laclede Steel Company, owner.

APPEARANCES—

For Applicant: A. Carl Weber.

ACTION OF BOARD—Material approved in accordance with the report and recommendation of Committee on Test.

THE VOTE—

Affirmative: Chairman Foley, Vice Chairman Kleinert, Commissioner Fox, Commissioner Becker and Commissioner Klein 5

Negative: 0

THE RESOLUTION—

WHEREAS, the report of a Committee on Test reads:

321-62-SM—Laclede Steel Company, St. Louis, Missouri filed for approval of the material known as Laclede SC, also known as J, Series Steel Joists under the provisions of Local Law 51 of 1962.

USE: Joists used in all classes of construction.

DESCRIPTION: The Joists are manufactured in depths ranging from 8" to 24". The top chord is manufactured of angles 1½" x 1¼", and thickness ranging from 0.085" to 0.275". The bottom chord is manufactured of angles 1½" x 1¼", and thickness ranging from 0.085" to 0.195". The web is a round bar ranging from 27/64" diameter to 51/64". The joists are designed in accordance with the Standard Specifications and Load Tables, Open Web Steel Joists—1963 Edition of Steel Joist Institute.

INSPECTION AND TESTS: Tests were conducted by Washington University to show compliance with Local Law 51 of 1962 under C26-519.0.d.1.

The load tables submitted by the applicant are based on total load (live and dead) and it was necessary to determine what percentage of the published load would cause a deflection of 1/360 of the span. The figured loading is based on design moment for the total load, therefore the test was conducted to determine what percentage of the load would cause a deflection of 1/360, and allow that percentage of the total load to be assumed as the live load. The tests showed that the load required to cause a deflection of 1/360 of the span averaged 75%.

RECOMMENDATION: The Committee on Test recommends the approval of the material known as Laclede SC, also known as J Series Steel Joists, for use in New York City when installed in accordance with the requirements of Local Law 51 of 1962. The Committee further recommends approval of the load tables for the Series J Joists as submitted in the catalogue described as the Laclede Straight Chord Steel Joist, Third Edition — January 1964, except that the loads shown in that catalogue being based on total load (live and dead) shall be figured on the basis of 75% of the total load as the maximum live load and 25% of that total load as the minimum dead load. It is further recommended that all plans submitted to the Department of Buildings showing the proposed use of this construction shall be labeled "Approved by the Board of Standards and Appeals for use in New York City under Cal. No. 321-62-SM", and further that all bills of lading and/or shipping tickets shall be similarly marked.
